/ quotes will be scored by the Bid Evaluation Committee against the functional criteria indicated in this Terms of Reference.

4.2. Scoring of bids (functional criteria)

The following weighting and scoring system will be applied to the evaluation of all functional criteria:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Weight allocation</th>
<th>Scoring system</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1 – Value adding requirement (minimum score of 2)</td>
<td>1 – Does not comply with the requirements</td>

<td>2 – Partial compliance with requirements</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5 – Essential requirement / integral part of project (minimum score of 15)</td>
<td>3 – Full compliance with requirements</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>4 – Exceeds requirements</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Score per criteria: The final score obtained by a bidder for each criteria will be calculated by multiplying the weight and the score indicated by each Bid Evaluation Panel member and then by averaging the scores of all panel members. The average score per criteria is expressed as a number.

The overall score obtained by a bidder (expressed as a percentage) will be calculated as follows:

\[
\text{Overall Score (\%)} = \frac{\text{Sum of average scores for all criteria}}{\text{Sum of weights } \times 4} \times 100

4.3. Functional evaluation Part 1 – Quantitative criteria

Part 1: Minimum functional requirements: Only bids that scored at least the minimum score for each criteria will proceed to functional evaluation part 2. In cases where bidders submitted insufficient evidence or where evidence is ambiguous, bidders may be requested to provide additional evidence and may be re-scored based on this information. Additional information submitted may only be used as evidence to substantiate what is already contained in the proposal. The costing and content of proposals may not be amended.

1. BACKGROUND / CONTEXT

The Not for Profit sector plays a key role in addressing poverty, injustice and other socio-economic challenges faced by communities, and its services are key in building a capable caring state. In addition to responding to material needs of communities where government and private sector fail, the sector also plays an important advocacy role, holding both private and public sector accountable. Cooperation and collaboration between government and the NPO sector is complex and marred by challenges (as shown in the draft problem analysis below). It is influenced by the complementarity and overlaps that exists between the different roles and responsibilities of the state and the different roles that government plays in its relation to NPO sector.

Firstly, government acts as a regulator of the sector. Like any other sector operating in the country the NPO sector is subject to a number of regulations. This includes legislation that sets conditions for establishing NPOs as independent entities with legal persona, i.e. the Companies Act, Trust Property Act, etc., legislation that regulate funding flows and governance issues, including tax and partly, legislation that regulate operations in different service sectors to protect people from harm. In this case government has the prerogative to set the policy framework in line with the constitution and in consultation with the sector. In these instances, the NPO sector often has to comply with legislative prescripts and government’s oversight responsibility.

Secondly government often partners with the NPO sector for service and policy delivery. In policy delivery the sector often represents the needs of particular groups in society, offers research and knowledge from implementation, etc. NPOs are often delivery agents for government, and because of the history of the country, in some cases delivering statutory services that are traditionally the responsibility of public institutions. In some sectors such as welfare, community-based health care, HIV/AIDS, NPOs provide a significant proportion of services. When NPOs bring cases against private institutions they often work as a partner with government to defend and protect human rights.

Thirdly, government can be a funder. According to Statistic South Africa most NGOs providing social welfare, health and education services to communities are funded by government. Government is however less likely to be funding social justice movements and other NPOs not delivering services. As shown in the Evaluation of the government application of the NPO Regulatory System, these different roles that government has in relation to the sector can conflict, creating an unconducive environment for the NPOs and negatively affecting policy and service delivery.

NPOs are not homogenous. Though referred to as a sector, there are diverse institutions of varying capabilities and focus. This ranges from often small community-based organisations (CBOs) and faith-based organisations (FBOs) to sometimes large professional non-government organisations (NGOs) with international reach. Some civil society organisations are not involved in service delivery, there are not-for-profit trusts which have been criticized for being loosely regulated, and some NGOs are very political in support of rights. In this ToRs (and project), the different terms will be used interchangeably to refer to a broad range of organisations in the Not for profit sector.

As Habib and Taylor (1999) argued, the history of the country influenced the kinds of NGOs that emerged. In the 1990s, two categories of political ideology emerged in the sector, with NGOs who took a liberal political stance and those who politically aligned themselves with the African National Congress. There were also NGOs that supported, or at least, did not challenge the apartheid government and worked to service the needs of the minority. These categories have not changed significantly and NGOs remain that defend sectoral rights and political benefits in ways that sustains power imbalances in society. Therefore, it is not always useful to talk about NGOs as apolitical organisations that are inherently protecting the public good. Thus there are cases where collaboration with government is hindered by legitimate conflicts of ideologies and policy intent. Stuart (2013) also argues that the increasing dependence on state funding of the NGO sector is a potential threat to the independence and impartiality of the sector. She also argues, that despite progressive constitution and legislation that allows for freedom of association, accountability of the public sector, freedom of speech, etc. There is a growing trend of civil society criticism by public figures in public platforms. This creates a sense that NGOs are not viewed by government as legitimate partners in development and hinders genuine partnership.
A vibrant NPO sector, and collaboration between the sector and government remains important for policy and service delivery and strengthening democratic governance. The National Development Plan Vision 2030 and the Medium Term Strategic Framework (MTSF) 2014-2019 underscore the need to strengthen partnerships between government and NPOs, particularly those focused on the provision of services to marginalised communities. To fulfill the NDP and MTSF obligations DPME intends to carry out an evaluation synthesis, to synthesise the findings from different evaluations, performance and expenditure reviews and research to generate evidence and coherent recommendations on how to strengthen collaboration between government.

2. PURPOSE

The purpose of the evaluation is to identify policy reforms needed to enhance collaboration between government and NPOs.

3. OBJECTIVES AND SCOPE OF PROJECT

3.1 Evaluation Questions

The evaluation will respond to the following key questions:

3.1.1. What are the models used by government to contract NPOs to deliver services and to play a role in policy development and implementation?

3.1.1.1. How effective and efficient does the existing evidence suggest these are?

3.1.2. How effective is the funding model for civil society organisations (Public funding-government departments, Lotto, NDA, Tax exemptions, etc.; international funding, private funding-philanthropy, individual giving, CSI, etc.)?

3.1.3. To what extent are the recommendations (contained in the NEP evaluation of NPO regulatory system) for streamlining regulatory systems for registration/legal form and services regulations feasible, likely to address the problem and deliver the intended outcomes for government and NPO sector?

3.1.4. To what extent are the systems for social and financial accountability for civil society organisations effective and how could they be improved?
TERMS OF REFERENCE: ANNEXURE A

3.1.5. Are the systems of accountability for government in relation to CSOs effective and how could they be improved?
3.1.6. How can the relationship between government and civil society organisations be enhanced so that performance is improved, trust is built and innovative partnerships are forged?

3.2 Intended users and stakeholders of the evaluation

Table 1 summarises the main users and how they are likely to use the evaluation results. This is important in conceptualising the consultation during the evaluation and in dissemination of the results.

4. PROPOSED METHODOLOGY / APPROACH

4.1 Methodology

- This evaluation is a diagnostic evaluation using predominantly a synthesis approach. The evaluation should draw on realist synthesis ideological and theoretical framework. The evaluation should offer explanation to about what works to create better collaborations between government and the NPOs sector in different contexts; i.e. advancement of human rights, social justice, service delivery, policy development, etc.
- The synthesis will build on existing work done by DPME, other government institutions and academic research, read against international good practices from countries with socio-economic conditions similar to South Africa to understand factors that contribute to effective NPO-government collaboration.
- Study design: The evaluation synthesis should include both qualitative and quantitative studies (both research and evaluation) on CSOs and government relations, including all national and provincial evaluations in South Africa of programmes or policies which involve NPO-government collaboration. The synthesis should also draw from primary government documents (policies, contracts, etc.), court rulings, media statements/release/publications, etc. The evaluation requires the development of a conceptual framework that defines key concepts and set forth a literature search, data extraction and analysis strategy.

¹ For example the Smallholder Evaluation, a synthesis evaluation of 5 rural evaluations has suggested that NPOs could be contracted to provide services for subsistence farmers more cost-effectively than being delivered directly by government

- Minimal primary work will be done to complement the review. The team will hold expert roundtables (including a problem analysis workshop and validation workshop), consultative workshops in Gauteng, Western Cape and KZN with different stakeholders, conduct strategically selected key informant interviews and focus groups with government, private sector, academia and NPOs to get inputs on different deliverables and to conceptualise how the collaboration can be strengthened.

CERTIFICATE OF INDEPENDENT BID DETERMINATION (SBD 9)

1 This Standard Bidding Document (SBD) must form part of all bids¹ invited.

2 Section 4 (1) (b) (iii) of the Competition Act No. 89 of 1998, as amended, prohibits an agreement between, or concerted practice by, firms, or a decision by an association of firms, if it is between parties in a horizontal relationship and if it involves collusive bidding (or bid rigging).² Collusive bidding is a pe se prohibition meaning that it cannot be justified under any grounds.

3 Treasury Regulation 16A9 prescribes that accounting officers and accounting authorities must take all reasonable steps to prevent abuse of the supply chain management system and authorizes accounting officers and accounting authorities to:

(a) disregard the bid of any bidder if that bidder, or any of its directors have abused the institution’s supply chain management system and or committed fraud or any other improper conduct in relation to such system.

(b) cancel a contract awarded to a supplier of goods and services if the supplier committed any corrupt or fraudulent act during the bidding process or the execution of that contract.

4 This SBD serves as a certificate of declaration that would be used by institutions to ensure that, when bids are considered, reasonable steps are taken to prevent any form of bid-rigging.

5 In order to give effect to the above, the attached Certificate of Bid Determination (SBD 9) must be completed and submitted with the bid:

² Bid rigging (or collusive bidding) occurs when businesses, that would otherwise be expected to compete, secretly conspire to raise prices or lower the quality of goods and / or services for purchasers who wish to acquire goods and / or services through a bidding process. Bid rigging is, therefore, an agreement between competitors not to compete.

I, the undersigned, in submitting the accompanying bid:
